RESULT OF LONG INVESTIGATION

Several Year Probe of the Rates in This and Other States Leads to Order

MADISON, Wis., May 21.—(Special.)—Changes of express rates of sweeping importance were ordered today by the Wisconsin railroad commission in its decision in the case brought by the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association. By an order of the commission, every express company operating in Wisconsin is included in the purview of the ruling. The average reductions ordered are about 20 per cent.

As the order sets no date for its becoming effective, the new rates will go into effect twenty days from today as provided by law.

The hundred pounds basing rates between points are considerably altered, and the graduate scales on which the charges for the various weights are computed are completely changed.

Result of Long Probe
The decision is the result of several years of investigation by the commission of express rates not only in Wisconsin but throughout the country. Particular attention was given to the scheme of rates proposed by the interstate commerce commission, and the rates ordered by the Wisconsin commission are designed to fit in with the interstate rates ordered by the national commission.

The scale fixing the relative charges for shipments of different weight are the same as those proposed by the interstate commerce commission, although the method of stating the basing rates between points are different. In the new Wisconsin schedule the basing hundred pound rates depend directly on railroad mileage, the rate increasing from a fifty cent minimum in steps of ten cents for each twenty miles up to 200 miles, and then by longer steps up to a maximum of $2.20 for distances of over 400 miles. The interstate commerce commission's scheme of having the same rate apply between all points in two blocks or sub-blocks was rejected for the mileage basis. This was done for the reason that the latter method gives finer gradations of rates, a point which is of less importance to the relatively longer distances covered by interstate rates. However, by the commission's order, the graduation of rates with distance is made such that the reduction resulting from the rates ordered by the commission is practically the same as would be effected by application of the interstate rates.

Lorimer Would Regain His Toga

WILLIAM LORIMER

CHICAGO, May 21.—William Lorimer, ousted from the United States senate after two trials, will open his campaign for the republican nomination to the senate to succeed Lawrence Y. Sherman, within thirty days, according to an announcement made today by Percy B. Coffin, one of Lorimer's associates.

Coffin asserted that he will be in charge of Lorimer's headquarters to be established in the rooms of the republican club of Illinois. Lorimer's fight will be based upon what he terms "the cowardice of the United States senate."

Lorimer himself would neither affirm nor deny today the statement that he will be a candidate. He said the announcement was premature.

O'HARA CLEARED BY COLLEAGUES

Illinois Senatorial Probe Exonerates Him from Charge of Immorality

WHITE SLAVE PROBE CENSURED

Report Censures Methods Used by Investigators
at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 21.—Lieutenant-Governor O'Hara was cleared today of all suspicion of immoral conduct in a report submitted to the senate by Senator Ettleson.

Senator Ettleson headed an examining committee charged to investigate charges that O'Hara had sustained improper relations with Mrs. Maude Robinson in the Hotel Sherman in Chicago January 17, 18 and 19.

Censure Vice Probe
Having exonerated O'Hara, the examining committee censured the senate white slave examining committee, of which the lieutenant governor is chairman. It criticized the methods used in the examinations in Springfield.

Sam Davis, Springfield, wholesale brewer, who caused the Robinson affidavit to be drawn up, was censured. Following the statement regarding Davis, the report stated that if anyone else tried to interfere with the work of the vice commission he "shall be hailed before the bar of the senate on contempt charges."

Regarding the investigation made by the vice commission in this city the report states:

Silenced Derby's Defense
"This committee further finds that the said senate vice commission, so-called, in the conduct of the examination of the witness Derby, as appears from the transcript of its proceedings, at its session, held in the city of Springfield, April 25, 1913, is subject to criticism as exceeding the bounds of judicial propriety; that the said commission did not permit the witness, Derby, to present fully his side of the question then under consideration and treated with undue severity both the witness and the manufacturing concern which he represented; that the language employed by the commission on this occasion was intemperate."

The Derby mentioned is Silas W. Derby, superintendent of the local branch factory of the International Shoe company, a $25,000,000 concern. The report takes up the entire matter beginning with the request made for an investigation by Lieut. Gov. O'Hara and the resolution providing for the appointment of the examining committee.

NO MORE PROFITS

NEW YORK, May 21.—Resuming his testimony today in the government suit the United States corporation, Charles Schwab, president of the Bethlehem company, the former company's rival, declared that United States steel can make rails cheaper than his company, but does not make any more profit per dollar invested.

The committee announced today that all factories who have not yet applied for window space should do so before tomorrow evening. Several of the exhibits planned for Home Made Week are too large to be accommodated by the store windows. These have been provided for by permission of Mayor Ori Sorensen in sidewalk and street space during the week of exhibition of home made products.

The board of trade committee which has in hand the raising of the $2,000 on the south side toward the Hans Motor Equipment company factory site announced today that good progress has been made and that but twenty-seven more $25 donations are necessary to complete the fund. ARMY MAN IN LA CROSSE

P. R. Nelson, member of the wireless telegraph corps of the U. S. regular army, stopped off in La Crosse on his way to the Pacific coast today to visit a few days with his mother. Mr. Nelson has a large number of friends in this city, having grown to young manhood here. He has been stationed with the troops at Fort Monroe and was transferred to Fort Warden in Washington to which he will go after his visit here.

JUL LAW DELAYED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 21.—Senator Nels Juul failed today in an effort to have the senate white slavery committee's minimum wage bill advanced to second reading without reference. Objections were raised at once and it was clearly the opinion that it should be given the closest scrutiny. It was referred to the committee on labor.

ARE AFTER REDFIELD

NATIONAL MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION EXPECTED TO DENOUNCE PROPOSED INVESTIGATION

DETROIT, May 21.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield was the person scheduled to feel the point of criticism at the hands of the National Manufacturers' association today.

Opposition to the new commerce secretary's proposition to appoint a federal commission for investigation of factories where wages are reduced, or output curtailed as a result of the Wilson-Woodward tariff law has been in evidence among the delegates of the manufacturers' convention throughout the three day session and it was expected that formal denunciatory action of the plan would be made just previous to adjournment late this afternoon.

Delegates almost unanimously to the opinions expressed in an address by William K. H. Boetker, lecturer and writer, who said that the cost of "wrong living"—indulgence in tobacco, liquor, vice and unnecessary amusements—in the United States would build each 12,441,000 homes, costing $2,500 each. The country's big manufacturers were absolved by Boetker from any responsibility in the high cost of living.

K. G.'S TO BUILD $100,000 HOME

Plans Perfected to Raise Money for Elaborate New Building to Be Erected in Five Years

TO SET ASIDE HALF OF FUNDS

Fifty Per Cent of Everything in Treasury to Be Placed in the Building Fund

An elaborate new home, to cost between $50,000 and $100,000, to be erected five years from now, is planned by the Knights of Columbus, according to announcement today. The plan has been in contemplation for over a year, and was officially sanctioned at the last meeting Monday night.

To Use Half of Funds
To raise the funds for the erection of the new building, one-half of every dollar taken into the treasury of the local council from all sources will be turned into a building fund. In addition, an energetic campaign for funds will be started at once, with a moonlight excursion June 19, and a series of entertainments of various kinds will be given to raise money.

A stock selling plan to raise funds from the members has also been devised by the building committee. Stock will be issued in $100 shares, and every local Knight of Columbus will be expected to take up at least one share. The plan is to make the shares payable within five years. There are now more than 300 members of the local council, and it is expected that the membership five years from now will be more than 500. The stock selling campaign will be inaugurated in the fall of 1913.

The building committee which devised the plan of raising funds which was finally adopted, has been at work for over a year. It consists of A. H. Schubert, A. P. Funk, Joseph Boschert, J. E. Lavaque and F. J. McWilliams.

To Have Gym
The new home, when built, will be something after the Y. M. C. A. model. "A combination Y. M. C. A. and club" is the way one of the members of the building committee expressed himself. There will be reading and rest rooms and recreation rooms for the members, and it is also planned to have a gymnasium and a swimming pool.

No plans have been drawn for the building, the decision to erect it having just been reached. The council also has not picked out a location for the new home. It is expected, however, that some corner in the central part of town will be chosen.

LICENSE REQUIRED FOR FISHERMEN

That non-residents cannot fish in Minnesota waters without a license was the announcement of County Clerk Bert Jolivet today following a communication from H. A. Rider, secretary of the fish and game commission of Minnesota. It has been assumed by several sportsmen in this vicinity that the law allowed Wisconsin people to fish in Minnesota waters without a license, said Mr. Jolivet, but Mr. Rider's letter plainly shows that this is not allowed by the law. Mr. Jolivet further called the attention of fishermen to the fact that Minnesota does not allow game fishing before June 15.

The Wisconsin closed season on rough fish is from April 15 to June 15, and on game fish from March 1 to May 29. Non-resident licenses are not necessary in interstate waters, such as the Mississippi river.

PURSE CONTAINING $1,690 IS FOUND

A heavy burden was lifted from the mind of Carl Voeks, of Caledonia today, when he was informed that a purse lost last Sunday had been found. Voeks lost a purse containing papers and money totaling $1,690, of which $130 was cash and the remainder certificates of deposit, on the road between here and Hokah. In notifying the police he said that a rig containing a man and woman was seen driving behind him. With this slender clue the police discovered that Mr. and Mrs. G. Peterson, 215 South Third street, had found the purse. It was returned to its owner today.

BANGOR COMMITTEE IN PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

A committee of the village council of Bangor consisting of President I. E. Richardson, F. B. Gesler, M. E. Brandt and R. W. Davis stopped in La Crosse today on their way to Prairie du Chien, where they will inspect the new sewer system which is in the course of construction in that city. Bangor will build a $21,000 sewer system, the bonds for which have already been voted, this summer and the committee is attempting to get some pointers from the Prairie du Chien construction work.

LANDSLIDE CARRIES TRAIN DOWN HILL

Four Killed When Caboose
Is Hurlled 600 Feet Down Mountainside

MANY ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED

Death List May Grow as Result of Injuries to Passengers on the Train

HINTON, W. Va., May 21.—Because of the serious condition of a number of the passengers injured when a train on the Sewell Narrow Gauge branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad was caught in a landslide and swept down the side of a steep mountain 600 feet, it was expected that the list of dead would be increased today. Four are known to have been killed outright. The train, composed of an engine, the cars and a caboose, had stopped between Sewell and Landisburg for the train crew to clear debris from the track. Suddenly a huge mass of earth and rock loosed by the recent rains came roaring down the mountainside, caught the train and carried it into the valley below, burying the caboose in which the passengers were riding. The known dead are: Jas. Walker, Hinton, W. Va.; Alvin Grimm, Kent, W. Va.; Robert Young, Kent, W. Va.; three year old child of Mrs. Sellards, Thurmond, W. Va. The seriously injured and whose condition is critical are: Mrs. Sellards, A. E. Nicholas, Charleston, W. Va.; Charles Walters, Fayetteville, W. Va.

ALLIES ASK FOR DELAY

BULGARIA ONLY ONE OF QUAD-RUPE ALLIANCE THAT IS IN A HURRY FOR PEACE

LONDON, May 21.—The Balkan peace plenipotentiaries are not ready to meet in formal session today and asked further delay. Last December it was Bulgaria which interposed all the dilatory tactics, but now the position is reversed. Dr. Daneff, the Bulgarian chief envoy, is trying to hurry up the signing of the preliminary peace pact, while Greece, Montenegro and Serbia are making moves for delay. A dispatch from Paris said that M. Theodoroff, the Bulgarian minister of finance, announced that the Balkan allies would demand $400,000,000 indemnity from Turkey when the international commission meets in that city May 27.

MORRIS AT THE PARTING OF THE POLITICAL WAYS

Next Few Weeks to Decide Whether He Becomes a Candidate for U. S. Senate or Governor

HOLDS KEY TO THE SITUATION

Will Receive United Support of La Follette
Men in Either
Candidacy

HOLDS MANY CONFERENCES

Lieutenant Governorship
Is Inadequate to Services to State or His Abilities

"Will Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris of La Crosse be a candidate for the United States senate or will his choice be to run for governor of Wisconsin?"

"Within the next few weeks this question will be determined. During the entire session of the legislature there have been repeated conferences among the La Follette republicans to perfect a preliminary program covering possible candidates for the senate and for governor. By common consent, Morris, among the LaFollette men, holds the key to the situation. Should his friends determine that he should select the senatorship, as the position aspired to, it is doubtful that any other candidate will appear among the LaFollette forces to dispute his claims. The same is true as to the governorship."

Sentiment is Divided
This is the question and opening statement of G. E. Vandercreek, political writer, in today's issue of the Evening Wisconsin, in a lengthy discussion of the political situation as it has developed at Madison within the last three months.

La Follette Wing Solid
That he will have no opposition in either candidacy in the LaFollette wing of the party seems to be a foregone conclusion.

"This, however, does not mean," writes Vandercreek, "that Morris will have a clear field for either position, for it seems to be generally understood that Governor McGovern's future course is the thorn in the political flesh of the LaFollette republicans."

To all intents and purposes, in the opinion of his friends and supporters, Gov. McGovern is a candidate for the United States senate, and with there is a string which may possibly again make him a candidate for governor. If the legislature should kill most of the measures McGovern has recommended and is interested in, he may go to the people for a third term with an issue based upon the assertion that he wants a chance to enact his policies into law. This chance has been denied him, he may claim, by the present organization.

"Lieut. Gov. Morris has for some months been trying to arrive at a determination as to what he should do. His friends argue that as a candidate for governor he will have the united support of the entire LaFollette wing of the party, and they believe that he can be nominated and elected as governor with a minimum of effort. Other friends and supporters assert with equal earnestness that Morris should run for the senate and that while there is considerable of a question as to his success as a candidate for the governorship, his chances to be elected to the United States senate are far better, even with McGovern in the field."

To Oppos McGovern
"It is argued that for many years Morris, in a political way, has been hitched to a sort of war tank place, all out of proportion to his abilities and entirely inadequate to the excellent service he has given Wisconsin and his party. As a candidate for the senate, other men like Lenroot, Hutton, Houser and possibly others, among those occasionally mentioned, would clear the track and allow this program to go through. Should he not be a candidate for the senate, the chances are that there would be a number of candidates and a maximum amount of friction and trouble in controlling the situation."

"In this matter, it is stated that Morris has been told that if he is a candidate for the senate, he will have the united support of the LaFollette wing of the party and other possible candidates will assist him in his election. The candidacy of McGovern is recognized, but if the program being arranged is executed, McGovern has nothing to expect in the way of friendship from the LaFollette men."

Mentioned for Governor
"Under the assumption that Morris will ultimately decide to become a candidate for the senatorship, the same forces have been giving earnest attention to the possibilities involved in the gubernatorial situation. The name most mentioned in this connection is that of Speaker Merlino Hull of Black River Falls. That Hull would like to be the candidate of the republicans is conceded by his friends but with this comes the strong de-

The faculty, students and friends of the Bible Institute held a jolly picnic Saturday upon the grounds of the institution and although the day was rather chilly it did not seem to mar the fun nor dampen the spirits of the crowd and when the bountifully-filled hamper was opened, each one did full credit to his or her share.

Mrs. Martin Laumb was taken very ill last Wednesday and when a physician diagnosed her trouble as gall stones, was immediately hurried to La Crosse for an operation. Mr. Laumb had gone to La Crosse the day before, being ill with what he feared was appendicitis, but on hearing of his wife's illness, at once returned home to again go back with her to the hospital. It now transpires that Mr. Laumb's trouble will not necessitate an operation, it not being appendicitis, but Mrs. Laumb had an operation and at last reports was progressing as well as possible.

A wreck of a freight train which occurred up the line Monday, delayed the arrival of the afternoon passenger train some three hours. So far as learned, no fatalities occurred in the wreck.

William Brunner has leased part of the farm owned by Mrs. James Tenborg, a short distance north of this city and will work the land for the coming season.

Children playing with matches was the combination which Monday afternoon started a blaze in a barn owned by Mr. Bratland, near the flour mill. Timely discovery of the fire prevented a serious time.

Continued rain and cold winds have greatly retarded growth of Rushford gardens, and so far not much corn planting has been done, the fields being too water-soaked for working.

Mrs. Henry Tenborg, who some weeks ago submitted to an operation at a La Crosse hospital, is rapidly gaining in health.

It is reported that Eber Rember and family who reside a short distance from Rushford on the North road, will soon move to South Dakota.

Spring cleaning is going on in our city with a fine swing and alleys and backyards all show painstaking work in the sanitary line.

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—The joint legislative committee, which for two days investigated the state fair site location in Milwaukee, will visit the Minnesota state fair grounds and make recommendations for an appropriation to make the Wisconsin state fair in Milwaukee one of the greatest in the United States.

Just before the joint legislative committee left for Madison on Tuesday afternoon, after hearing Milwaukee's claims at a session in the Plankinton, Senator White, chairman said that the trip would be taken at once. He would not openly admit that Milwaukee had been chosen as the permanent site, but it is known to be certain that the committee members have seen enough to make their report in favor of Milwaukee.

LATIN SLANG IS MOTTO OF CLASS

RACINE, Wis., May 21.—"Perturbareur" is the motto of the graduating class of the Racine high school. It was chosen as a compliment to the method of teaching and lessons learned by the members of the class while at the school.

Persons, not members of the class, became inquisitive and asked the meaning of the term. Members of the class refused to enlighten them. Then one of the teachers well versed in Latin, translated the phrase and was astonished. She reported to L. H. Brooks, principal of the school, who said the class would probably realize the absurdity of the motto before it is too late to adopt a different one.

"There never was a more inspiring phrase than our motto," said a member of the class on Tuesday. "It expresses all the hope and optimism of mankind. It is the doctrine of cheerfulness."

The translation of perturbareur is, "We should worry."

MADISON, Wis., May 21.—Two Indians from Stillwater, Minn., experts in the art of recovering drowned bodies, have been employed by searchers for the remains of Herbert Wright, who drowned in Lake Mendota on Saturday, and will start work as soon as the wind permits them to get on the lake. They have made one request of the members of the Sigma Chi fraternity and C. B. Wright, uncle of the drowned man, and that is that all boats be kept half a mile away from them while they conduct the search. They claim their methods are known to no one but themselves.

Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.

The Woodman Cut the Trees Down.

JACK and Evelyn were waiting at daddy's elbow. "It's time for us to have our story," they said. And so daddy began: "Once on a time there was a handsome big hill. The hill was very, very proud of itself and used to look down on everybody else."

"It said to the tall trees which grew on its sides: 'You should be very glad that I allow you to grow here and draw your food out of my soil. You would die if I were not for me.'"

"The trees whispered to the woodman, and the woodman came and cut them down and sent them away. Some became the masts of ships, and some were built into houses, while others were used in various other ways."

"And because the trees were gone the sun shone down fiercely on the head of the hill, and the little plants and the grasses that grew there complained. The hill answered: 'You should be very glad that I allow you to grow on my sides. You should learn to be more humble. Grass is only grass, but I am a hill.'"

"And by and by all the grass and all the plants died off, for the sun beat down on their heads so hotly that it scorched them, and the storms beat on them so heavily that they broke them down and the heavy rains washed them out by the roots."

"Then the hill stood out quite bare and uncovered. The sun burned it until its sides cracked and crumbled, and when the rain fell it washed the soil down grain by grain until the hill saw itself growing smaller and smaller, for the tall trees that had soaked up the rain and the little plants and the grasses that had held it together with their roots were gone."

"Then the hill began to be frightened. When it asked the trees and grasses and the plants to come back and grow on its sides they answered that they could not because all the soil had been washed away."

"The hill said: 'Well, when all this loose earth is gone and I stand out a mass of rock the rain can't hurt me.'"

"But the rain gathered in the hollows and cracks of the rocks. When winter came it would freeze there. When warm weather came the ice in the openings would swell in melting, and the rock would be broken and cracked. Then when the spring freshets came rushing down the hill's sides the water would pick up the broken pieces of rock and grind them one against the other until they were crushed to sand. Then the water washed the sand away."

"Summer and winter this went on until the hill was washed level and every one had forgotten that ever a hill stood there."

WHY FAMOUS PASTRY COOKS USE K C BAKING POWDER

The patrons of our first class hotels and restaurants are exacting—they demand the best. Women go where the pastry and cakes are noted for their excellence. Men are attracted by hot bread and biscuits—when fresh and moist and light.

The pastry cook with a reputation uses K C Baking Powder because he knows that results are certain; every time everything is as good as his best.

Then, too, with K C Baking Powder he can mix the various kinds of batter before the rush of the meal begins and bake as needed so that every order goes to the table fresh and hot, yet the last he bakes are just as good as the first.

The reasons behind these reasons is that K C is really a blend of two baking powders. One commences to give off leavening gas as soon as moistened. The other requires both moisture and heat to make it active. Dough or batter will remain in a partially leavened condition for hours, and when put in the oven, will come up as light as if mixed a moment before.

For cookies, pancakes, doughnuts and the like, which cannot all be baked at once, K C is indispensable. For all baking the double raise makes doubly certain.

Follow the example of the professional cook and your baking will be equal to his.

Meter Reading To Be Changed

Our present practice is to read the meters during the last part of the month and to deliver the bills on the first of the month. The result of this has been to so congest the work in all departments that we are not satisfied with the service rendered.

The new method will only change one thing, the date upon which you will receive your bill.

The city is to be divided into 25 districts, and bills rendered in each district throughout the month.

You will receive a bill in June for the gas and for current consumed from the May reading until the date of the bill. The next month the July bill will be delivered, just one month later than the date of the June bill and it will be for a period of a whole month.

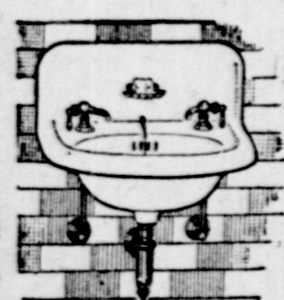

Consumers will have ten days in which to pay bills as usual, after which the usual penalty will be imposed.

MR. RENTER SOLILOQUIZES

"Of all the exasperating circumstances, if this isn't the limit. Here I must leave in a few minutes and that leaky faucet has splashed my cuffs. They are ruined, and that faucet is only on a par with the rest of the plumbing in this house. The closet tank leaks and the very sight of that copper-lined bath gives me the shivers."

"Brown was telling me yesterday of apartments on _____ Street, that have exquisitely equipped bathrooms, all white even to the closet tank and seat, pedestal lavatory and built-in bath. They are so sanitary that you can turn a hose into the room and not harm anything. I'll talk it over with Helen; we might as well live like other people."

I, Frank H. Burgess, business manager of the La Crosse Tribune,
do solemnly swear that the actual number of copies of the paper
named, printed and circulated during the month of April, 1913, was as above stated.Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of May, 1913.A. E. BLEEKMAN, Notary Public.WHAT DO YOU WANT TO TALK ABOUT IT FORQuite true is the following observation of the Eau Claire Leader:"Senator La Follette, true to his promise when he sees occasion to criticize President Wilson, is fearless in so doing. The latest criticism is the president's declared intention to remove the present head of the census bureau, who according to the senator was not appointed from a political standpoint. One knows always where to find Senator La Follette."The surprising thing about it is not that the Leader "knows where to find Senator La Follette," but that at last it has found him where it wants him. Perhaps the senator will hesitate to accept the compliment.Incidentally, The Leader has failed to note that not only does Senator La Follette frankly criticize President Wilson when he believes him wrong, but that he as frankly praises
the president when he thinks him right, and that the praise comes far more frequently than does the censure.GETTING AWAY
FROM WARWhen a man, especially a peace-loving, honest and just man (this is the description we all give ourselves), thinks of how in his common, everyday affairs he has to fight
and fight earnestly for every forward
step he takes, the task of abolishing
war between nations seems well nigh hopeless. Nations are only big aggregations of individuals, with all the faults, weaknesses and prejudices of individuals. As long as individuals quarrel, how can we expect nations to give up the habit?The thought is suggested by the new book, "Germany in Arms," of which the preface, and, some say,
the book itself, is written by Crown Prince Frederick William. According to his view, diplomacy may delay and occasionally avert conflicts,
but the sword will remain the final
and decisive factor until the world's
end. "Only with the support of our good sword," he says, "can we maintain that place which is due to us,
but which is not willingly accorded to us."This is the view of the average man who enters into a conflict, either

with real or figurative weapons, with another man. He feels that his right is being invaded, and that therefore he must fight for it. The great unseen forces that impel the strong young man to demand a larger and larger play for his individuality inevitably bring him to a clash with other men. The great unseen forces that impel the strong young country to demand a larger and larger field for its nationalistic individuality inevitably bring it to a clash with other countries. The sturdy youngsters known as the Balkan states are illustrations. In this case old man Turkey, because he was unprogressive, dishonest and unfit, had to give way. But the only thing that convinced him he had to give way
was the sword. If he had given away gracefully his prestige might have been saved; his obstinacy cost him utter humiliation.

In everyday life there are strong,
secretive and well prepared Bulgars,
just as there are vain stubborn, immovable Turks; they fight and jangle
in shop office, factory and mill.
In fact, the average man's life is just one fight after another. How, then, are nations to get away from fighting? Simply as the individual gets away from it—by self-control, by cultivating impartiality, and by recognizing that others have a right to their "place in the sun."

CRAWSHAW'S ANALYSIS OF THE HIXON GIFT

"Mr. Hixon's gift is a great educational investment—one of the greatest of which this city or any other city can boast."

Thus did Prof. Frederick Crawshaw, one of the country's greatest authorities on manual arts education, characterize the high school annex in his dedicatory speech.

"When we speak of the new education as vocational," said Prof.
Crawshaw, "we do not mean that only those subjects shall be taught which lead directly to some narrow calling in life. What is meant is this: that from the kindergarten to the college there shall be some emphasis laid upon the work-a-day activities of life and that all subjects
whether they are vocational in character or not, shall in some way be connected up, or at least related to the things which make a living for men and which in the doing, make life worth living."

"It is this relation between making a living and living a life which makes the public school the place of all places where the 'greatest number of subjects possible and the greatest number of vocations that may be taught.'"

It is in the belief that it may help
the citizens of La Crosse to a full understanding of the broad purpose of Mr. Hixon's donation and a realization of the value of manual training to which the new annex is devoted that The Tribune today publishes Prof. Crawshaw's analysis of his subject, "The Place of Manual Arts in Public Education." The speech in full appears on another page of this issue.

Having declared war on the suffragettes, England will be too busy to take any interest in foreign complications and will have no army or navy to spare.

This year is the centenary of the plug hat. Several of the originals are yet in service, right here in our home town.

It is understood, however, that the knickerbocker edict at Yale, does not make it compulsory for Prof. Taft to wear them.

The "smart set" at Washington, it is reported, is about to abandon the Wilsons to their fate. They should worry.

"On the Banks of the Wabash" is now the state song of Indiana. The song is most appropriate at flood times.

GARRISON ROUTS RUMORS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Replenishment of ammunition stock destroyed in the recent fire at Benicia, Cal., is the only reason behind the handling of this variety of munitions
of war at present at some of the Pacific coast stations, Secretary of War Garrison asserted today. He denied reports that there was any "unusual activity" at any coast army posts, asserting that routine shifting of troops to and from the Philippines
was the only military movement now on.

RUPTURE IS HOPELESS

ATLANTA, Ga., May 21.—That the northern assembly of the Presbyterian church will vote that a re-establishment of relations between the church and the Union Theological seminary is hopeless, is indicated by today's proceedings. Members of the committee that negotiated with the seminary are divided. Three reports were made. The majority report presented by Rev. David G.
Wylie, D. D., recommends the continuance of the committee with the hope of final reconciliation.

Quips and Cranks
and Wanton Wiles

The Rub
The Game is full of stings and clouts
Of jabs and jolts that cut and hurt;
Of brooding fears and sudden doubts
That take the heart out of the sport.
But here's the worst of any race
To see, back in the rut assigned,
A pal who couldn't hold the pace—
A good old pal who's left behind.

Sometimes I wonder just what those Who've reached the crest must think and feel;
Barred, where the Gates of Fate must close,
From those amid the vanquished
reel;
To look back, through the flash of fame,
And see across the rail of Time
A pal who couldn't beat the Game—
A good old pal who couldn't climb.
—Collier's.

Doubtful Identity
Pat Rooney, having been to the fair, was driving home when a great drowsiness overcame him, and he lay down in the cart and went to sleep.
The horse, finding himself free to do as he wanted, promptly kicked through the traces and ran away.
When Pat awoke he found no horse. While he was pondering over the situation a stranger came up.
"Am I Pat Rooney, or am I not?"
asked Pat.
"I'm sure I dunno," answered the stranger.
"Well," said Pat, "If O'm Pat
Rooney, O've lost a horse, and if O'm not O've found a cart."—New Orleans Picayune.

Masters and Bosses
"Why do you give so much attention to pictures?"
"Well," replied Mr. Cassius Chex,
"in accumulating my fortune I have come more or less into contact with legislation. I like to spend some time among the old masters in art to set my mind off the fresh bosses in politics."—Washington Star.

The Champion Optimist
We award the championship diamond belt for optimism to a resident of one of the rural districts of Scotland. As the story goes, an old man was sitting on the roof of his house
during a flood, watching the waters
flow past, when a neighbor, who possessed a boat, rowed across to him.
"Hello, Bill," he said.
"Hello, Sam," replied the other.
"Are your fowls washed away this mornin', Bill?"
"Yes, but the ducks can swim."
"Apple trees gone, too, eh?"
"Well, they said the crop would be a failure, anyhow."
"I see the river's reached above
your windows."
"That's all right, Sam. Them windows needed washin'!"—Boston Globe.

Unlike the Lawyer Men
The Moberly Monitor is telling
this little story on a lawyer there.
It happened in Judge Tedford's court,
and the witness was a negro woman,
whose reply to every query was "I think so."
Finally the opposing lawyer rose and pounded on the desk. "Now, you look here," he roared, "you cut that thinking business and answer my questions. Now talk."
"Mr. Lawyer Man," said the witness, "Mr. Lawyer Man, you will have to 'scuse me. I ain't like you 'terneys. I can't talk without thinkin'."—Kansas City Times.

Dog Life in a Flat
They who have ever flat-hunted in New York know well that till a rental of $5,000 or $6,000 is reached flats are incredibly cramped. Indeed, in a good neighborhood, even a $5,000 flat is apt to be a tiny one.
Discussing this phenomenon Prof.
Brander Matthews said at a luncheon:
"I remarked to a lady the other day: 'Why, madam, your dog wags
his tail up and down.'
"Yes," she replied, "he has to.
We are comparatively poor, you see,
and Fido was raised in a $5,000
flat."—St. Nicholas.

A Severe Sickness Leaves
The Kidneys Weak

After recovering from a severe spell of sickness some time ago, I was all run down and suffering from poor blood. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys bothered me all the time. I started taking Swamp-Root upon the recommendation of a friend and found it was just what I needed. My blood became all right and after taking a few bottles, I was surprised at the effect it had on my kidneys. They were entirely cured and I have much to be thankful for that your great remedy did for me.

TERRIBLE ITCHING
AND BURNING

Scalp Eczema for About Five Years.
Form of Ringworm. Thick, Rough Scale. Entirely Well After Using Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Iberia, Mo.—"I was troubled with scalp eczema for about five years and tried everything I heard of but all of no avail.
The doctors told me I would have to have my head shaved. Being a woman I hated the idea of that.
"I was told by a friend
that the Cuticura Remedies would do me good. This spring I purchased two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap. After using one box of Cuticura Ointment I considered the cure permanent, but continued to use it to make sure and used about one-half the other box. Now I am entirely well.
I also used the Cuticura Soap.

"The disease began on the back of my head, taking the form of a ringworm only more severe, rising to a thick, rough scale
that would come off when soaked with oil or warm water, bringing a few hairs each time, but in a few days would form again, larger each time, and spreading until the entire back of the head was covered with the scale. This was accompanied by a terrible itching and burning sensation.
Now my head is completely well and my hair growing nicely." (Signed) Mrs. G.
F. Clark, Mar. 25, 1912.

THE TRIBUNE'S
Daily
Short StoryGRANDMA'S
OLD BIBLE

By DONALD ALLEN.

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure
Newspaper Syndicate.

John Brodie of the Brodie Mills, was a very busy man. He was also a fairly wealthy man. Furthermore, he congratulated himself that he was a blue-blooded man.
As most persons understand it,
blue blood is to the manner born,
and that means rich and cultivated ancestors who lived with their noses
in the air and considered themselves the salt of the earth. As some others understand it, blue blood,
which is just as red as a truck-driver's blood, comes after a man has scrapped about $50,000 together and got to be mayor of a town of at least 5,000 inhabitants. That condition of affairs had come to John Brodie.

Sometimes, sad to relate, a blue-blooded father and husband will have a wife and daughter that won't join hands with him on the question. That was the case with John Brodie. His good wife and his daughter Maggie refused to be blue-blooded. They refused to be snobs.
They refused to be pompous. When they were lectured about it, Miss Maggie would sometimes preserve silence, but at others she would flame out with:

"Why, father, you began life on $1.50 a day."

"But—but—"

"And your father and grandfather were mechanics."

"Daughter!"

"And your mother kept house in two rooms."

"Maggie I will not hear such talk!"

If John Brodie hadn't been so busy and blue-blooded and pompous
he might have made a certain discovery of interest to him long before he finally got the bump. One of the foremen in his mills was a young man named Harry Winfield.
He had won the position on his merits. He had a widowed mother to care for on a salary none too liberal and therefore went little into society, but was respected by all
and spoken of as a young man who would make his way.

Young Winfield had been to the Brodie house on business a number of times, and had met Miss Maggie
at social gatherings before Mrs.
Brodie quietly began one evening.
"Maggie, it is being whispered around that Mr. Winfield is one of your admirers."

"I hope he is," was the answer.

"You know what your father's views are."

"I have heard them times
enough."

"Mr. Winfield is not blue-blooded."

"Poor boy!"

"He is a working man."

"All honor to him!"

"If your father knew that there was even friendship between you he'd discharge the young man at once."

"He'd rave of course."

"So, then, daughter—?"

"He may have a chance to rave.
If it was left to father to pick out a husband for me, he'd select some snob that I couldn't live with a week."

Three months later the "raving" came.

Mr. Harry Winfield donned his Sunday suit one Wednesday evening
when he knew that His Honor the Mayor would be at home, and rang the bell of his mansion. Miss Maggie expected him, and was at the door to admit him and whisper:
"Father is in the library. Go right in."

"I'd rather face a battery."

"But you've got to go in."

"Oh, I'll go in right enough."

And in he went, to be surveyed for a moment by the father and then greeted with:

"Well, Harry, is there a strike on the mills?"

"I think every man is content,
sir."

"No machinery broken down, I hope?"

"None, sir. I am here on account of your daughter."

"My Maggie? Well, what about her?"

"We are in love, sir!"

"What?"

"And I am asking your consent to the marriage."

"Young man," said the blue-blooded mill-owner, "have you lost your senses? Do you realize what you are saying? You in love with my daughter! She in love with you!"

"That's the case, sir," was the reply of the trembling lover.

"And she knows you are here
this evening to ask my consent?"

"She does."

"One of my mill hands in love
with my daughter!" shouted Mr.
Brodie as he rose up with flashing
eyes and purple face. "Your impudence is most astounding. You must be at least half insane. I answer you no! no! no! Leave this house, sir!
I discharge you from the mills! I
—"

"Can you say anything against me as a man, sir?"

"You've got the impudence of the devil! I told you to go!"

Three minutes later Mr. Winfield was out of the house, and the girl was in the library and her father was gesticulating and demanding:

"Tell me if you have fallen in love with that parvenue Winfield?"

"I have."

"He hasn't got a dollar to his name!"

"You didn't have when you married!"

"He has no social standing."

"And you didn't have!"

"Don't talk back to me! You'll either drop this thing right here or I'll disown you!"

Nineteen times out of twenty such threats are of no avail. Three days after they were uttered Miss Maggie Brodie and Harry Winfield were secretly married, and she went to a cousin's house and he left the town
in search of another job.

"They can go to the poorhouse and be damned to them!" said the blue-blooded Mr. Brodie to those who had the bad taste and the boldness to ask about the affair.

A fortnight had passed when there was put into the bride's hands
a letter and an old Bible. The letter had been written by her grandmother weeks before, and when she had but a few days to live. The Bible was scores of years old. Grandma was an old eccentric, who lived in a village fifty miles away, and she and Mr. Brodie were not good friends. The letter had a few farewell words for the granddaughter
and closed by asking her to search the Bible. When this was done a bit of queer writing was found. It read:

"It is 17 s from the f d to the bot Dig. The house is left you by will."

It was as not until Mr. Winfield was called home, and man and wife
made the journey to the town and inspected the poor old house that puzzled out her meaning. She was surely a very eccentric and suspicious woman. Instead of going about the thing in a normal way, she had mystified it so that the chances were hardly one in fifty that her puzzle could be solved.

Good luck had to go with patience

REVIVAL TO OPEN AT CITY MISSION

F. L. Holden, Noted Evangelist, to Hold Meetings
 Here for Three Weeks

ASK PASTORS TO CO-OPERATE

Wife of Preacher Will Conduct Musical Services and Women's Meetings

Beginning next Sunday Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Holden, Bible School Park, N. Y., will conduct a series of evangelistic meetings at the City Mission, 325 Jay street. The campaign will last three weeks.

Superintendent D. C. Dewey of the Mission is planning to hold the meetings elsewhere than in the Mission, if the hall does not prove to be large enough. Mr. Holden is noted throughout the country as an evangelist and Bible teacher, and is expected to draw a large crowd at the meetings. He will be assisted by Mrs. Holden, who is a noted evangelistic singer and conductor of women's meetings.

In the meetings that Mr. Holden conducts throughout the country it is his aim to bring permanent results to the churches for which he works, endeavoring to bring converts to the church who stay in the institution after the meetings are over. Mr. Holden has many recommendations from pastors of churches in which he has held meetings. In their recommendations the pastors say that he is a man that speaks from the heart in all he says, is safe and sound in doctrine and methods, and a most earnest student of the scriptures.

Superintendent Dewey will ask the co-operation of the pastors of churches in this city who have assisted in meetings in the past. The meetings will be held each evening.

WELL DRESSED BOYS SLEEP IN THE JAIL

Three young men, well dressed and having the appearance of prosperity, were the guests of the city last night at police station No. 2 on Caledonia street. They gave their names as Peter Rueger, George Popick and Henry Frost from Chicago, each giving their ages as 19.

Officers at the station were puzzled as to what to do with the boys, as they had a neater appearance than most of the men who have applied in the past for lodging at the station.

The boys said they were interior decorators and were on their way to Minneapolis to be employed.

CATTLE AND HOGS WILL BE SPRINKLED

Owing to the loss of cattle and hogs during the summer months in years past by shippers of livestock, the railroads in the northwest have received notices from officials requesting that regular stations be erected for the sprinkling of all cattle and hogs at every stop, when the trains on which they are being transported are fast ones.

DIES LOOKING BACKWARD

John Desmond has added another novelty to his large collection of freaks in his museum at the Combination saloon on Caledonia street. A few days ago a farmer driving in from Onalaska with a crate of chickens, stopped at Mr. Desmond's, and Mr. Desmond spied a weak little chick with its head turned backwards. He asked permission to keep it, but a few hours afterwards it died. Its head being inverted, it could eat nothing. Mr. Desmond is having the chick stuffed.

 SECRET TO THE WORLD.

A Free Prescription You Can Prepare At Your Own Home.

Many women take perfect care of their face and clothes, yet neglect their hands. Rough, red hands are almost as unattractive as ill-kept teeth.

It is a simple, easy matter to keep your hands smooth and beautiful.
 The following prescription, which you can compound at your own home, is famous for the marvelous, instantaneous results it gives:

Get from your druggist one ounce of Kulus Compound. Put it in a two-ounce bottle, add a quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, fill with water and shake well.

You will be surprised at the result
 when applied to your hands, arms, face, neck or shoulders. Blemishes of every kind disappear as if by magic. Freckles, tan, rough skin, coarse pores yield instantly to this application. It is deliciously cool and soothing and is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off. This is the prescription of a famous Parisian beauty.

SPOTLIGHTS

"THE PRINCE OF PILSEN"

One of the chief reasons for the long continued popularity of Pixley and Luder's musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," which comes to the La Crosse theater tonight, is that it has not been allowed to deteriorate
in any respect, but is kept keyed up to the Henry W. Savage standard of excellence, which is the final word in theatrical productions. The numerous song hits in this piece have an enduring grasp on public favor.
"The Message of the Violets," "The Tale of the Sea Shell," "The Stein
Song," with its ringing, swinging Heidelberg chorus, "The Song of the Cities," and "Pictures in Smoke," all have successfully contributed to this splendid entertainment. The company that will present this important revival is headed by "Jess"
Dandy, long identified with the role of Hans Wagner, the "Zinzinnati" brewer. In the supporting cast are to be found the names of Lottie Kendall, Fred Lyon, Bernard Ferguson, Edna Pendleton, Norma Browne, Bobby Woolsey and John O'Hanlon.
The orchestra always a feature of a Henry W. Savage musical production, will be under the direction of Emil Bierman.

YESTERDAY'S WORK IN THE LEGISLATURE

Senate
MADISON, Wis., May 21.—The Gulickson joint resolution to wipe out the taxation uniformity clause in the constitution so as to permit a trial of the single tax idea in modified form in counties upon their own option was killed in the senate last night after a long debate. The vote was 15 to 15, but as it requires a majority of all senators elected to pass
a constitutional amendment the resolution failed. The plan was championed by Senators Hustung and Tompkins. It was opposed by Senators Burke and Kileen. Senator Kileen made the main attack on the resolution, claiming that it would open the door to jockeying with the taxation laws at every session of the legislature. Senator Hustung claimed that it would aid in the development of northern Wisconsin if passed and approved by the people and quoted members of the tax commission as not being opposed to the idea.

On motion of Senator Scott the nomination of Clem P. Host, as state fire marshal, was laid upon the table. There seemed to be understanding among the senators that the nomination of Host was to remain on the table until the bill merging the state fire marshal's office with that of the insurance commissioner was finally disposed of in the assembly. There was no opposition to the Scott motion.

The senate passed the Kileen bill
increasing the salary of circuit judges in the state from $5,000 to $6,000.
It occurred in the Litz bill ordering the printing of 2,500 copies of the report of the state fish and game warden; the Giudice bill requiring the licensing of dogs when more than two are owned by one person and the Hull bill giving state aid to high schools in the state giving special instruction in typewriting and stenography.

The Conway bill to exempt mutual public utilities from the operation of the stock and bond law was killed.
The senate also killed the Kiefer
joint resolution memorializing congress to pass a federal amendment to the constitution permitting the national government to engage in the fire and life insurance business and the Chinnock resolution memorializing congress to pass a bill for the opening of a canal between the Mississippi river and Lake Superior. The assembly killed the Huber county court bill limiting the time for the settlement of estates.

Assembly
The Nordman bill creating a state board of optometry and otherwise regulating the optometry profession
was passed by the assembly last night by a vote of 47 to 34. The fight for thus standardizing the optometry
business has been waged for a number of years, and the senate is said
by promoters of the legislation to be favorably inclined.

The assembly passed the Holmes
bill placing reorganized or bankrupt railway companies under the stock
and bond law, and permitting public utilities to increase their capital stock to the amount of the actual physical value of the plant.

WILSON SHUTS OFF WAR TALK FLOW

Makes Representative Sisson Tone Down Speech on the Japan Situation

SMASHES PRECEDENT AGAIN

New Move Practically a Censorship Over Speech-making in the House

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson disregarded all precedent again today in exercising what amounted to a censorship over speech making in congress which might complicate the situation growing out of Japan's protest against the California anti-alien law.

Learning that Representative Sisson of Mississippi intended again to discuss the Japanese situation, and, bearing in mind the Mississippi's inflammatory utterances several weeks ago on the same subject, the president sent for the congressman and asked him to detail what he proposed to say. He was requested to eliminate any portion of the speech which might tend to inflame or arouse any feeling by Japan.

In his previous speech Sisson declared that he would rather see war with Japan than surrender of any state's rights.

It was reported that the president's warning to Sisson would result in a "toning down" of the latter's remarks.

LA FOLLETTE LIST UNDER DISCUSSION

First Full Meeting of Senate Finance Committee Held Over the Tariff

MAY LOWER MANY SCHEDULES

Rumor at Large that the Senate Plans to Cut Duties Lower than House

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Progress in the tariff battle in the senate was marked today by the first full meeting of the finance committee since the Wilson-Underwood measure came to the upper house. The immediate business was a decision as to whether the La Follette list of questions to manufacturers designed to bring out the essential facts as to the need for a tariff on their products, should be printed and sent out by the minority members to all the protected interests. The Penrose resolution, calling for the names and addresses of tariff protesters who have been before the democratic members of the committee was before the committee yesterday.

Rumors of lower rates on various items of manufactured goods were persistent today, while California members of the house confessed a fear that lemons might be placed on the free list. The senate, far from showing a tendency to modify the reductions in duties, may even go farther from the protective tariff than did the house, according to members of the finance committee. The steel schedule is said to be now in process of downward revision.

Hearings on the tariff granted by sub-committees of the senate finance committee will close next Tuesday and Senator Simmons expects that the measure will be reported to the upper house by the end of next week. This was the announcement by the finance chairman today.

laration that Hull's candidacy in no way will be allowed to interfere with the possible candidacy of Morris.

"The next in order who is in high regard of his political associates is Senator George E. Scott of Barron county as a possible candidate for governor. For many years Senator Scott has been one of the foremost supporters in the legislature of the progressive policies and is closely identified with the La Follette leaders and movement. Many of these men believe that Scott should be selected as the gubernatorial candidate and in the senate especially this is the situation. Scott is the chairman of the republican state central committee and during the troubles of the last campaign managed affairs to elect the state ticket by a safe plurality. As in the case of Hull, Senator Scott will not permit a conflict with the Morris plan, in case the La Crosse leader is made to see that he should run for the governorship.

La Follette Doing Nothing

"In these plans it appears that Senator La Follette is taking no hand. All are his friends and while possibly as a matter of personal desire he would be pleased to see Morris as his colleague, the Wisconsin senator believes that Morris is best able to decide what he should do. It is said that La Follette has not advised his lieutenants as to this situation. He has talked the situation over and doubtless will favor Morris for the senate in case the program is so made by his forces in the state. A number of his closest friends are firm in the opinion that Morris should make the senatorship his choice. It is also believed that Senator La Follette has discussed the situation with Morris and has impressed the necessity of making a plan, upon him. With respect to the governorship, it is not in evidence that Senator La Follette has expressed a preference among those whose names are connected with the place.

"Owen, for attorney general, Donald for secretary of state, and Johnson for state treasurer, unquestionably will be renominated by republicans. Just what disposition will be made of the lieutenant governorship is in doubt."

MEXICO APPROVES $100,000,000 LOAN

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—Sanction of a $100,000,000 loan at six per cent was early today voted by the Mexican congress. Thirty-eight per cent of the customs receipts is the guaranty authorized for the loan, which is to be placed at 90 and run for ten years. The entire amount goes to French bankers, but it is known that British interests are participating.

KILL INSURANCE BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 21.—The so-called insurance bill, said by its opponents to give monopolistic control of the insurance business of the state to insurance commissioner, was killed in the assembly today. Assemblyman A. J. Schnitzler, after moving that the bill be taken from the table moved that action on it be indefinitely postponed. After considerable debate the second motion was adopted.

REPORT TO FAVOR MINE INVESTIGATION

Believed Labor Sub-committee Will Approve the Kern Resolution for Probe

UNION MEN WATCH THE SENATE

"Mother" Jones and West Virginia Miners Await Favorable Decision

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Senators Borah of Idaho, Shields of Tennessee, and Swanson of Virginia, comprise the sub-committee named today by the senate committee on labor, by agreement with Majority Leader Kern, to report on the Kern resolution calling for investigation of the West Virginia coal miners strike and its causes and effects. It was considered certain the report would be favorable.

Senator Kern expects to demand a roll call vote on the resolution immediately after the report is made to the senate. Senator Goff of West Virginia has not signified any intention further to delay the vote.

The delegations of union men from Charleston and Wheeling continue to wait in the senate galleries for the decision. Many of them attended a mass meeting last night when "Mother" Jones described the conditions in the Paint and Cabin Creek fields, and declared that "West Virginia could give cards and spades to any bloody ruler in the world."

At the same meeting, Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois said that the miners were denied their constitutional rights and if they are not given relief will in the end become anarchists.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS STATE SERVANTS

Board of Visitors' Report Says Regents Should Impress This on University Heads

MADISON, Wis., May 21.—Declaring that the board of regents should impress upon the faculty and the administrative officers of the university and especially upon some of them, that the institution belongs to the people and that every teacher and every officer is a servant of the state, the university board of visitors submitted their report to the president of the board of regents.

The board also recommends that a dean of men be appointed, whose relation to the men students shall be the same as the dean of women, and that the university should educate the young men and women in the humanities as well as in scientific and utilitarian branches of learning. They also suggest that the school of music should be given greater financial support and be made of greater service. They also are of the opinion that the method of dealing with dishonesty in the university is very unsatisfactory, and they suggest that the regents appoint a committee of at least five professors to devise and recommend some other plan.

They also recommend that as dormitories are built and thrown open to the students from the state of Wisconsin shall be given preference.

FACTORY EMPLOYEES HEAR OFFICIALS TALK

Talks on sanitation and safety devices were delivered by C. J. Kremer and Edward Evans, of the state industrial commission, and by Leonard Kleeber of the La Crosse employment bureau, at a meeting of the employees of the Montague Candy and Cracker company which was called by President Wallace Montague.

The meeting of employees was the first of its kind held in the city and the plan had such an effect that it is probable that it will become a regularly established custom in the industrial plants of the city. Wallace Montague followed up the talks of the state officials with one of his own in which he heartily endorsed the work of the commission for employees.

DOGS TO BE SHOT OR OWNER ARRESTED

Considerable difficulty is being experienced by the police this year in collecting the annual dog tax, and unless the situation is changed in the next few days drastic action will be taken, according to Chief John Webber today. It is probable that several dog owners will be taken into court and fined unless they pay their assessment or the patrolmen will be instructed to shoot all unlicensed dogs found on the streets.

But 602 dog licenses have been issued this year in spite of the fact that the time for paying the tax expired May 15. Last year nearly 1,500 dogs were licensed, but not all of them until after nearly a hundred had been shot.

STRIKERS STICK FOR UNION SHOP

Sheet Metal Workers to Take Complaint to Trades and Labor and Building Councils

SEEK WORK IN OTHER CITIES

Box-makers and Coopers Unable to Reach Agreement with the Employers

Because the proprietors of the seven shops in La Crosse have refused to meet the committee of the sheet metal workers who have been on a strike for nearly two weeks, the matter will be taken up for action in the Trades and Labor and Building Trades councils Friday evening according to an announcement by union officials today.

The recognition of the Sheet Metal Workers' union is the principal point in controversy, it being practically agreed that the employers are willing to concede the higher wage scale asked by the strikers. It is claimed by the union men today that the shop proprietors have agreed to grant the raise in wages but insist on an open shop and refuse to meet the strikers committee to consider the matter or arbitrate.

Henry Rumpel, of Milwaukee, organizer for the national organization, arrived in the city today to assist if possible in a settlement of the controversy. If an agreement is not reached today or tomorrow he announced that the matter will be taken to the Trades and Labor council and the Building and Trades council Friday night.

Letters have been received by the secretary of the local union, offering employment to sheet metal workers in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Green Bay, Oshkosh and Aurora. Three or four men have already accepted positions in other cities and others are said to be corresponding with union shop firms for jobs.

About twenty men are on a strike affecting seven shops. The men ask a raise in wage scale to 33 1-3 cents an hour and a nine hour day. They have been getting from $1.75 to $3.00 a day for ten hour days they say.

The box makers and coopers are still on a strike having been unable to settle the disagreement with their employers.

RAIL COMMISSION ORDERS SWEEPING EXPRESS RATE CUT

ing the interstate commerce commission's block and sub-block rates.

The most important changes in the rates arise from the change in the graduate scale. Under the official graduate scale now in force, the scale, starting with a minimum of 25 cents, increased by five steps, and for all the scales most commonly applied, the rate on a 65 pound package was as great as on a 100 pound package, and for several scales even as great for fifty pounds as for 100 pounds.

Under the rates ordered by the commission the minimum is 21 cents and the increases up to the 100 pound rate are evenly distributed over all the different weights. The effect of this change is to make a drastic cut in the charges on the smaller shipments, which constitute the bulk of business, and leave the charges for the larger shipments comparatively unchanged.

The present and proposed rates between Milwaukee and Janesville illustrate this. Compared with the present rate, the new rates ordered constitute an increase of 7 per cent on a 100 pound package, a decrease of 13 per cent on a 75 pound package; a decrease of 17 per cent on fifty pounds; of 22 per cent on 25 pounds; of 35 per cent on 10 pounds, and 34 per cent on 5 pounds. The new rate for 100 pounds between Milwaukee and Green Bay is the same as the present; the rate on 75 pounds makes a 20 per cent reduction; on 50 pounds, 25 per cent; on 25 pounds, 27 per cent; on 10 pounds, 33 per cent, and on 5 pounds a 40 per cent reduction.

Brought by Merchants

The case was originally prosecuted through the Merchants and Manufacturers' association by Walter Drew of Madison, now deputy attorney general. The commission's decision has been ready for some months, but its announcement was delayed awaiting complications to be made by the interstate commerce commission on interstate zone rates including Wisconsin. Early in the present session of the legislature, Assemblyman W. E. Hurlbut of Winnebago county introduced a bill for a horizontal reduction of express rates in Wisconsin of 20 per cent. The commission's decision goes even further than the Hurlbut bill proposed.

The order will go into effect on June 9. Under the Teasdale bill passed by the present legislature, if any attempt is made to hold up any decision of the commission the express companies will be required to give a bond and make a refund on all old rates charged pending the final termination of the litigation if the decision is sustained.

SCARED BY CAR HORSE RUNS AWAY

Fright at a street car on Fourth and Jay streets this noon caused a horse which G. Cook, State Road collector, was driving, suddenly to balk and then run away. The jerk separated the front wheels from the light wagon. The lone horse trailing the pair of wheels after him left for home at a 2:40 clip, leaving Cook and the wagon behind. Neither Cook nor the contents of the wagon were injured.

DEMOCRATS TO OPEN NATIONAL OFFICES; WILL KEEP POT BOILING THE YEAR ROUND

WASHINGTON.—The campaigns of 1914 and 1916 are a long ways off, but the leaders of the democratic party have concluded that eternal fighting is the price of supremacy. That explains why they have decided to open a national headquarters here at Washington in the near future, which is to be busy the year around.

The work of this headquarters is to be in the hands of a small committee. At its head is Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, caucus chairman of the house and recognized as the president's spokesman in that body. Its treasurer is Rolla Wells of St. Louis, who acted as treasurer of the democratic national committee during the last campaign.

At the permanent headquarters Thomas J. Pence of North Carolina will be in charge as manager of publicity. Pence very successfully conducted the Wilson press campaign a year ago. He will send out democratic Washington letters to 10,000 weekly newspapers and 2,000 daily papers that have no special correspondents at the national capital.

Other members of the committee are Clark Howell, the Atlanta (Ga.) editor; Fred Lynch of Minnesota; Cato Sells of Texas and Homer Cummings of Connecticut.

George and Wilhelm Embrace as Cavalry Salutes on Potsdam Station Platform

The war-lord kissed King George, And George gave Bill a peck. Those martial moustaches tickled the king With his beard in the kaiser's neck.

BERLIN, May 21.—The kaiser kissed the king. The king kissed the kaiser. Incidentally, the kaiserin kissed the queen and her salutation was returned.

It all happened today when the special train bearing King George and Queen Mary from the British royal yacht Victoria and Albert drew up at the railway station, bringing their Britannic majesties to the wedding of Princess Victoria Luise and Prince Ernst of Cumberland.

Kaiser Wilhelm and Kaiserin Augusta Victoria were on the platform, and when the royal guests descended from their carriage, Wilhelm kissed the hairy cheek of Cousin George and George likewise imprinted a chaste salute on the jowl of Cousin Wilhelm. While the two great world rulers embraced, the cavalry saluted, the populace cheered, and a triumphant march to the palace began.

King George and Queen Mary were the first of the royal guests who will attend the wedding next Saturday of Princess Victoria Luise, only daughter of the kaiser, and Prince Ernst, son of the Duke of Cumberland. Their majesties came to Germany on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, having left London Monday.

PLACE OF MANUAL ARTS IN PUBLIC EDUCATION

Dedicatory Address by Prof. Frederick Crawshaw, of the Wisconsin University Department of Manual Arts, at the Hixon Annex Opening, May 16.

"We are called together tonight to dedicate a noble building to a worthy purpose—the greatest of all purposes in life, that of public education. It is true that the material gift of Mr. Frank P. Hixon is made to the city of La Crosse, but the real gift, that of educational opportunity for the boys and girls of this city, is made to the great cause of education.

"This gift is more than a pile of masonry to help beautify the city of the donor's adoption; it is an institution to preserve and develop for all the children who may choose to accept of its benefits a most important if not a fundamental activity of the race—industrial occupation.

"It is seldom, indeed, that we learn of such a far reaching benefaction on the part of one individual. The average mortal does not make gifts of any great consequence even to himself or his near and dear ones. He makes investments. Furthermore these investments are made for the express purpose of increasing personal, material capital. In the expenditure of a large sum of money for the erection of the beautiful manual arts building which forms the annex of this magnificent high school Mr. Hixon has made an investment of the largest proportions as well as a gift which in itself seems large to most of us. Furthermore his investment is not for larger material, personal capital, but for the greater spiritual, moral and intellectual public capital which we know as men and women of character and strength of purpose in life. Hence it seems to me but fair to say that the gift of many thousands of dollars which means much to this city as a material asset means a thousand—yes a million times more as an educational uplift to countless numbers of future citizens not only of La Crosse but of all parts of the world. They will be a little farther advanced than we of this day and generation in that priceless possession which we call citizenship, the backbone of which is character.

New Type of Education

"But the type of education for which this building stands is worthy of our consideration. It is comparatively new as a form of education in school but as old as the world itself when regarded as a part of the greater education which we get in life outside of and beyond the school. Industrial activity has been fundamental since time began, and the type of education which will go on in this new building represents some of the main industries of mankind, some form of which is the means of sustenance for 99 per cent of the peoples of the earth.

"It is a type of education which did not begin in the schools but with the masses of men. It is therefore democratic; not scholastic in origin. This fact alone makes Mr. Hixon's investment most significant. But this is not the principal reason for its significance.

"Today there is a new life-giving force in the educational atmosphere. There are new impulses and new demands and instinctively we say they are inherent in the conditions which surround that latest form of education known as vocational.

"As industrial education is part and parcel of the larger portion which we call vocational, and as public school manual arts is the larger term for the several forms of industrial education it would seem that the erection of this building for drawing and shopwork, and for cooking and sewing marks a step in the direction of a new educational spirit which is perfectly natural as the outgrowth of American freedom and vocational purpose.

Youth Leave School

"But the phrase 'vocational purpose' as applied to education may be confusing or even meaningless to us. Let us attempt to understand it. We are told that as a result of social, economic or industrial conditions or as a result of a combination of all three of these a very large percentage of our American youth are leaving the public schools at a ridiculous early age. Statistics prove that this is true. Hence the questioning with regard to the aim and value of our public school work.

"This questioning has reached the point where there is an educational unrest and it is manifestly true that the present consequent demand is a reorganization of educational material in order that the work of the public schools shall be made more useful. This is the simple meaning then of vocational purpose, viz: a more useful education. A real demand is now made that courses of study in all lines shall lead to a higher efficiency on the part of all boys and girls who use the common avenue of the public schools for their life as citizens.

"Now it is generally supposed that there are two main forms of education, the general and the vocational or professional but a close analysis will show that in reality there is but one form and that professional, or 'liberal' to one is 'vocational,' 'technical' or 'professional' to another. The reason is that what is a vocation for you may be an avocation for me. And so in our schools a subject is 'general' or 'vocational' depending upon the purpose which the one has who takes the course. To illustrate, physics to the boy who is looking forward to the work of a teacher of sciences, an engineer or a scientist is a vocational or professional course while to the one who expects to enter the law or ministry it is 'non-professional or general.'

"By this means of reasoning, therefore, which seems to me sound, it can be proven that any and all subjects have both 'cultural' and 'technical' value depending on the part of the student upon the reason for taking and upon the part of the teacher the method of presenting it. 'If now there is both 'cultural' and 'technical' value in all subjects and the public schools are maintained for all children to make of them men and women of some particular vocational or professional value and good citizens as well they must as Dean Eugene Davenport of Illinois, than whom there is no greater educational prophet today, says: 'Teach as many subjects as possible and as many vocations as may be in the same school, under the same management and to the same body of men.'

Revolution Taking Place

"Such a statement may seem at first to be revolutionary. It is in the sense at first to be revolutionary. It is in the sense that it means a complete reorganization of our schools. This is a mammoth task.

But this reorganization is already taking place although slowly. Therefore Prof. Davenport's plan is one evolutionary in effect rather than revolutionary and if it were not so we could not well agree with it no matter how sound in theory it may be. We have witnessed in the past five years a remarkable change in our public school curricula. The old academic standard which was defined by James Russell Lowell when he said that a 'college education was one which had in it nothing which led to the useful in life' must be and is being changed. Many of us in this hall have seen all of the vocational subjects, viz: agriculture, domestic science, commercial subjects and manual arts, come into the high school. Within the past few years the number of high schools in Wisconsin offering courses in commercial subjects have gone past the one hundred mark. In my short residence in Wisconsin, less than three years, the number of high schools giving manual arts have increased from fifty-six to within not more than six of one hundred and I am certain that the number will go beyond one hundred before the beginning of the next school year. Of these none are better provided for than the high school in which we are at present seated.

"Education in America has become a passion with all classes, the poor no less than the rich, and the abiding faith which we all have in it is due in a large measure to the gradual change toward the useful which is emphasized most by the vocational subjects.

Workaday Activities

"And yet not a few feel that vocational spells narrow instead of liberal. May I remind you that when we speak of the new education as vocational we do not mean that only those subjects shall be taught which lead directly to some narrow calling in life. What is meant is this: that from the kindergarten through the college there shall be some emphasis laid upon the workaday activities of life and that all subjects whether they are vocational in character or not shall in some way be connected up or at least related to the things which make a living for men and which in the doing make life worth living.

"It is this relation between making a living and living a life which makes all public high school the place of all places where the greatest number of subjects possible and the greatest number of vocations that may be should be taught. The public high school is the lineal descendant of the old district school. It has become the educational forum of the people—the people's college and unless it offers the widest possible range of choice to all classes of people it will not long continue to hold its place as the arena wherein there shall be educated 'all the children of all the people.'

Representative Subjects

"But someone says: How can you accommodate in any one high school all the subjects which will best fit all the children for their several future vocations. You can't. But this you can do. You can select the most representative subjects of the principal vocations such for example as agriculture, the leading commercial subjects, the principal home activities and the shop and drawing which is fundamental and basic for the chief building and machine trades and you can provide for their being taught and for all other subjects being related to them for much less money than you can (and otherwise must) provide for the great waste now inherent in our public education.

"It is a practical example of the old adage that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.' If by means of a comparatively small expense to a community for the uplift of vocational departments in the public schools that community saves the much greater expense of maintaining poor farms, reformatories, prisons and a duplicating system of education in the form of continuation schools, day and evening public trade schools, etc., there is good business in such an undertaking.

"By no means would I be understood to say that the vocational subjects serve as a cure-all for all educational, social and economic ills of a community. What I do mean to say is this: that if the right sort of vocational guidance in the form of personal vocational conferences and individual vocational training is given many, many boys and girls will not leave the public schools at an early age to go adrift and later on become public charges, but will remain in school and receive the benefits of its uplifting environment during the period while they are most susceptible to both the right and the wrong influences. In addition to this the additional benefit of a direct training for their life work will be certain.

"But I must not dwell longer upon the general value of vocational training in the public schools. I must assume that you believe with me in the financial as well as the educational value of a useful education.

Relative Value of Manual Arts

"The principal point in my theme is still to be developed, viz: The Place of Manual Arts in Public Education. In developing this point I must discuss with you the relative value of manual arts and industrial education as we understand these terms in this state. A brief review of the demand for the industrial in schools is first needed. It will be necessary to consider this subject from the standpoint of America only.

"The first great impetus to industrial education was given in the United States when in 1876 in Philadelphia at the Centennial Exposition Russia exhibited the manual work of her Imperial Technical Institute in Moscow. Earlier than this, however, in 1825 in the New Harmony Communities in Indiana and later in the manual labor movement of 1830-35 when the Society for the Promotion of Manual Labor was formed the emphasis upon industrial education was strongly made. Still again in 1862 when the Morrill act was passed establishing land grant colleges of agriculture and mechanic art not only the demand for industrial education was made but this demand was made effective in law. It is the act which made possible the great state universities which perhaps better than any other branch of our education system makes possible the vocational non-vocational in school education—a relationship which develops universal efficiency with good citizenship.

unites activity and learning and helps to perfect a homogenous population safe guarded by the life which stands for good morals and good government.

"The Centennial exposition exhibited of the Moscow Technical school was the direct means of establishing three mechanic or manual arts high schools in this country. The mechanic's institute in connection with the Institute of Technology in Boston, Mass.; The Manual Training high school in St. Louis, Mo., and the Chicago Manual Training high school established by the Commercial club of Chicago in that city.

"I venture to say that if the principles upon which these three parent manual arts high schools were established had continued little unchanged to this day that we would not now have in this country the agitation which exists with respect to industrial education.

Useful Education

"They were established and existed for the sole purpose of a useful education, viz: the preparation of young men for industrial occupations demanding both mechanical skill and industrial intelligence.

"But there was then as there is now, but in a much greater degree than now—a protest raised against the introduction of shopwork and drawing into the public schools. This was commercializing education the educators said. What was the result? Finally, although this work spread through the high schools of the larger cities, as the result of this protest and also the introduction into this country of an educational handbook, so called—named Sloyd—the form of mechanical work in the schools was considerably changed and in place of the utilitarian object and the commercial practice there was substituted the educational handwork project and the traditional school method of teaching how to make it.

"Thus we have had in our schools for many years past what we have called manual training but which originated in the high schools of America as industrial work.

Past and Present

"There now comes a demand very similar to that of thirty-seven years ago—a demand for industrial education. Coupled with this demand there are several interesting and significant facts which further establishes a close relationship between the present and the past.

"First: We now have a national society called, The National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education. Then there existed for a time the National Society for the Promotion of Manual Labor.

"Second: Now we have before the national congress bills to provide federal aid for the establishment and partial maintenance of agricultural and mechanic arts schools of secondary grade. Then there was enacted into law the present Morrill act which established gave aid and still gives aid to the state institutions of higher learning maintaining schools of agriculture and the mechanic arts.

"Is it not apparent that in many respects the demands and conditions of nearly forty years ago were very similar to those of today? What should this mean to us? Manifestly, as I see it, one thing is this: that industrial education is needed and must and will come. But in what form? Shall it be truly industrial and thereby fulfill the letter as well as the spirit of the demand or shall it again be modified and for a time appease the public but break out anew in a still stronger protest against the modification and louder outcry for the original than we now have? Again shall it become a part of the present existing public school system where the machinery ready for putting it into operation or shall it become the business of a separate organization, the sole purpose of which shall be to train boys and girls for immediate industrial service and the possible exploitation of those who would gladly have more efficient workmen but care little whether or not the country at large has better citizens?

"Whatever may be the answer this is true: the policy adopted will be a curse instead of a blessing if it is not the result of the most careful and painstaking consideration of educators, manufacturers and tradesmen. The policy must be for education and not for mere training; it must be for far reaching results and not for direct results. It must be for efficient citizenship and not merely for better workmen, laudable as that may be as an object.

"We are told by some that Germany offers us the best example of what we should do about industrial education here, viz: establish continuation schools which we now have and which are controlled by a separate governing board. Now I have no quarrel with the continuation school. It is much needed and is doing a great good but as a mere casual observer may I point out this fact: that America is not Germany and American conditions are not German conditions, and that merely because Germany has established continuation schools is no reason at all why America should establish continuation schools. And again may I call attention to the fact that in our own country we may have some lessons to learn from the experience of the past forty years in the conduct of manual arts in this country. While the original manual arts high schools held fast to their original intentions they were eminently successful. Why should we not therefore repeat and continue the original experiment in this country as it is evidently the intention of La Crosse to do in this beautiful and most admirably equipped manual arts building?

Change in Conditions

"But to do this and do this alone is not sufficient. Conditions in this country have changed within the past forty years. The industrial demands are not only different but greater. The 'ounce of prevention' instead of 'the pound of cure' must be administered. The seventh and eighth grade boy and girl must be given industrial opportunity through a manual arts department which will mean differentiated courses of study and a vocational guidance. This vocational guidance must be given in part through vocational training not in one line of educational handwork alone as in wood for example but in several lines of vocational as well as educational handwork. If added to the program there is a vitalization of the academic studies so that they are related to the industrial occupations then there will be a filling up of this high school which will overrun its capacity. For boys and girls they want to go to school. They quit school merely because it means nothing to them. And, furthermore, fathers and mothers do not wish to have their children go to work. They will sacrifice almost beyond human endurance if need be to send their offspring to school. All they ask is that the school shall mean something which in general may be expressed in two terms.

"First: A place where their children shall learn to live a life in which they can make a living and which they can enjoy.

"Second: A place in which their children can learn to live a fuller life than they otherwise would or could do.

Range of Opportunity

"And so the high school must supplement the work of the upper grades in the grammar school by offering a wide range of opportunity in specialization as well as differentiation. The high school manual arts department must be a place where boys who cannot go through the four years of regular work leading to graduation can get the thing they want to make a living. They must be able to get this in one year or two years instead of four or instead of waiting until the fourth year for it. For those who can and will complete a four years' course it is well enough that they should take the manual arts work in some accepted sequential order.

Course of Study

"But one of the banes of education today is the 'course of study' an ideal rather than the 'subject.' The time must come when the subject is the all-important thing and not the prescribed course of study. The course of study has been the bug-a-boo for too many boys and girls already—it is the main cause of the great waste in numbers of pupils who drop out of school in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

"So I may say in closing that Mr. Hixon's gift is a great educational investment—one of the greatest of which this city or any other city can boast. He has opened the doors for an untold number to gain both a living and a rich and full life. He has made it possible for this city to prove, as other cities are proving that by the judicious administration of the material fruits of his bequest there need not be the aimless, hopeless, careless boy and girl set adrift at an age when little else than the commonplace and mediocre can come to them in life. If indeed the very worst influences may not be the effective ones. He has made it possible also by example to supplement the good work that this high school may do by starting preparatory industrial work of real vocational significance in the grades, thereby greatly if not wholly reducing the necessity of a supplementary continuation school program involving a duplication of machinery, effort and expense.

"Indeed he has by his gift-investment opened the way for a further proof of the infallible doctrine that universal education, which does not mean universal knowledge but rather universal opportunity, is the greatest of all the great gifts which America offers to her own and her adopted children."

COUNCIL PASSES BOND ORDINANCE

SPARTA, Wis., May 21.—The council met Friday night at an adjourned regular meeting and passed the bonding ordinance whereby the city was bonded for the sum of $32,050, principal and interest, for the purpose of paying the city's portion of the cost of the proposed street improvements which is estimated in the sum of $18,000. The bonds are for $20,000 and a good example of the way interest piles up is shown by the fact that the entire amount necessary to pay these bonds is $32,050.

Senator Teasdale appeared and opposed the bonding on general principles. He also attacked the proposed asphalt macadam, saying that he knew that it did not make good in Madison; that Madison had some forty blocks of it which were being repaired extensively this year. He also said that everyone knew the durability of brick paving and that it was a very poor policy to bond the city for $32,050 for the purpose of raising $20,000 with which to install some experimental paving.

The ordinance fixing the salaries of the city officers for the ensuing year came up for third reading and an amended ordinance was introduced by Alderman Smith. After some discussion, which waxed hot at times the amended ordinance was killed, and thereafter, upon a vote, the original ordinance was killed, so as yet there are no changes in the salaries of the city officials. The main bone of contention was the salary of Water Works Engineer Gregory, which has been $80 a month for the past year. Mr. Gregory wants $90 a month and some members of the council are of the opinion that $80 is an adequate salary for the services performed. It was stated by Aldermen in the discussion last night that Mr. Gregory works from 5 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the morning, and that by that time the well has been pumped dry and the pumps must be stopped in order to allow the well to fill up; that again at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the pumps are started and run until about 8 o'clock, when they are again shut off. This makes about eight hours of labor for Mr. Gregory each day. He has Joe Culpit, an assistant, to fire the boiler and Carl Solberg to do other work about the plant. This water works plant has been the subject of much discussion and some feeling on the council for several years back. Some members of the council have felt that the water department was a bit extravagant at times, while the water department has seemed to be of the opinion that the council was very stingy at times. The railroad commission has in charge an investigation of the water department of the city and the methods of bookkeeping used by the department and also by the city, with a view to ascertaining whether the present water rates are adequate and to make the city's and the water department's methods of bookkeeping correspond.

Policeman at Bathing Beach

An ordinance levying a tax of $100 annually for the payment of a caretaker and policeman at the bathing beach at Water Works park was introduced by Alderman Jefferson. It was opposed by Alderman Smith on the ground that it was illegal. Smith claimed there was no authority given by the charter law or by any other law whereby the city could install or maintain a swimming hole or provide a man to take care of the same. Alderman Jefferson contended that it was a good thing and well patronized and should be kept up by the city.

Alderman Smith called the attention of the council to the fact that at the time the bathing beach was installed under the management of a number of local philanthropists, the council was asked to provide them with a building for dressing rooms, etc., and was assured and promised by the promoters that no further assistance would be asked of the council or the city and that the entire expense of the maintenance of the bathing beach would be borne by private subscription and that persons interested at that time would continue to be in charge of it and raise the funds. Smith continued, and alleged that, as was usual with this sort of promoters, their enthusiasm caused them to make promises which they did not fulfill and that now the matter of soliciting funds and caring for the bathing beach had become a burden to them and they have gotten tired of the new fad and want to lay it on to the city. Smith's argument was very effective and seemed to be based upon facts.

The effective argument advanced by the persons in favor of the ordinance was that the bathing beach was a very popular institution with Sparta's young folks and was well patronized by everybody and it ought to be a city institution.

P. J. Toohy, a laborer, and Malvin Weaver, a colored barber, were posted, and the council voted to provide copies of the Wisconsin statutes, 1911, for the city attorney and the two justices of the peace.

Dies on Eve of Graduation

The death of Frank Rievett, a member of the graduating class of the local high school, occurred Thursday afternoon. A sister of the deceased is also a member of the graduating class. The young man was a fine young fellow and was well thought of by all his class mates and the entire high school. His untimely death brings a great sorrow to his widowed mother and is made harder to bear by the fact that he was so soon to have received the honors of a high school graduation.

$150,000 FIRE AT SIOUX FALLS, S. D.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 21.—Loss estimated at $150,000 resulted from a fire which started early this morning in a three story brick building of the Brown Wholesale Drug company near the heart of the business district. Insurance will cover about 90 per cent of the loss. Flames completely gutted the structure, destroying large stock and leaving standing but the shell of the building. Several explosions of acids and other liquids occurred. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

ASKS PROBE OF OWN ELECTION

CHICAGO, May 21.—State's attorney Hoyne surprised opponents candidates who had petitioned for the appointment of a special prosecutor to investigate charges of fraud in his election and today petitioned of his own accord Judge Kersten for the appointment of a special prosecutor and special grand jury to investigate the charges of fraud. The petition was granted and Judge Kersten appointed Clyde L. Day, a Busse republican, to conduct the inquiry. Day's name was on the list of four republicans and four democrats submitted to the court by Hoyne.

HARMON SHUTS OUT NEW YORK GIANTS

Cardinal Twirler Gets 8 to 0 Win with Mathewson in the Box

CUBS KNOCK PERDUE OUT OF BOX

Second Inning Sews Up Boston Game Tightly for Evers' Chicago Warriors

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21.—Crippled considerably by the absence of First Baseman Hoblitzel and Second Baseman Egan, who were taken ill while in Boston, the Cincinnati Reds were easy for the Phillies yesterday afternoon, the daisies being on the long end of the score, 5 to 1. Score: R H E Cincinnati .. 000001000—1 5 2 Philadelphia .. 02200001X—5 9 1 Batteries: Fromme and Clark; Alexander and Killifer.

Chicago 7; Boston 3
BOSTON, May 21.—The Cubs knocked Perdue out of the box in the second inning and scored seven runs. Rudolph, who finished the game, was in fine form and did not allow the visitors to score, but the lead was enough, Chicago winning, 7 to 3. The score: R H E Chicago .. 070000000—7 7 0 Boston .. 010000200—3 8 2 Batteries: Overall and Archer; Perdue, Rudolph and Whaling.

Pittsburg 4; Brooklyn 1
BROOKLYN, May 21.—The Pirates broke Brooklyn's winning streak by taking yesterday's game, 4 to 1. Allen for the locals and Robinson for Pittsburg were about on a par, but errors on the part of the Dodgers were costly. Score: R H E Pittsburg .. 000001000—4 6 2 Brooklyn .. 100000000—1 7 3 Batteries: Robinson and Simon; Allen, Stack and Miller.

St. Louis 8; New York 0
NEW YORK, May 21.—Harmon had the Giants swinging blindly for nine innings yesterday and the Cardinals won by a shut out, 8 to 0. The defeat is all the more serious because it is registered against Mathewson, thought to be McGraw's one sure bet. Matty was taken out in the sixth and Wiltse put in to pitch. Score: R H E St. Louis .. 000022022—8 14 0 New York .. 000000000—0 2 4 Batteries: Harmon and Wingo; Mathewson, Meyers, Wilson and Hartley.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 21.—Playing listless and ragged ball St. Louis lost to New York yesterday afternoon by the score of 6 to 3. An error by Wallace resulted in three of New York's runs in the third inning which clinched the game. Score: R H E New York .. 023000010—6 9 1 St. Louis .. 100001001—3 8 1 Batteries: McConnell and Sweeney; Baumgardner and Agnew.

Cleveland 10; Washington 9
CLEVELAND, May 21.—The Naps won a nip and tuck battle from Washington yesterday, 10 to 9, with ninth inning rally. Score: R H E Washington .. 042002010—9 12 0 Cleveland .. 200122003—10 12 4 Batteries: Mullin, Williams, Mitchell, Hughes, Henry, Cullom and Blanding; Kahler, Gregg and O'Neill.

DETROIT 8; Philadelphia 7
DETROIT, May 21.—Detroit won yesterday's game from the Athletics in the tenth inning 8 to 7 because a bit of Connie Mack's strategy went wrong. Cobb singled and took second when Daley fumbled. Veach sacrificed him to third. Connie ordered Brown to fill up the sacks in order to make possible a double play or a forced play at the plate. By the time Brown had walked Gainer and Moriarity, he had lost the range for the plate and passed High also, forcing in the deciding run. Score: Phila. 1012010110—7 11 1 Detroit .. 0120000401—8 9 3 Batteries: Houck, Brown and Lapp; Klawitter, Lake and Stange.

MURPHY-BRITTON BOUT IS A DRAW

CHICAGO, May 21.—Though Jack Britton, local fighter, showed splendidly in last night's battle with Eddie Murphy at Kenosha, his claims for recognition by Willie Ritchie were not as seriously recognized today as his followers had hoped. Murphy, who was laid low by Britton in Boston last winter, won a draw in the ten round bout last night and had all the best of it in the closing rounds. The fighting was savage all the way.

NOTED TRAINER STARVING

NEW YORK, May 21.—Edward Congalton, 76, was being cared for by friends here today, after being found starving in a box car in Hoboken. Congalton declared that at one time he was head trainer for the New York Athletic club, trained John L. Sullivan and later managed Kid Lavigne.

FLYNN IN TRAINING

NEW YORK, May 21.—Fireman Jim Flynn, who will meet Jim Coffey, the Dublin giant, in a ten round bout here Friday night, took to the road for a stiff workout.

GUNBOAT SMITH GETS DECISION

Willard Strong and Willing but Lacks Skill to Put Away the Sailor

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 21.—Lack of experience and not Gunboat Smith is what lost Jess Willard the decision in his twenty round battle with the sailor, according to the belief today of persons who witnessed the affair. With a little more instruction in ring tactics, the Kansas giant would have been able to put Smith away, they declare. As it was, Referee Selig awarded the decision to Gunboat Smith after twenty scrappy rounds. Fans were dissatisfied with the verdict, believing a draw would have been fairer.

Although Willard had a fifty pound advantage in weight and a big lead in height and reach over Smith, his inexperience more than overcame this. Smith had little difficulty in landing, but he could not make an impression on the big fellow. Three times—in the fourth, fifth and fourteenth rounds—Willard suddenly came to life with a terrific attack on his opponent. In each round he appeared to have Smith very near the edge of oblivion where only a little skill in handling his hands would have pushed him off.

MANDOT KNOCKED OUT

BUD ANDERSON PUTS NEW ORLEANS BOY AWAY IN TWELFTH ROUND OF COAST MILL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 21.—If Bud Anderson can continue to make the weight, Willie Ritchie will have to look to his laurels in the lightweight division. This seems to be the opinion today of fight fans who witnessed last night's battle between the Vancouver boy and Joe Mandot when Anderson knocked the Frenchman out in the twelfth round. Although Mandot, after being knocked down in the final session, regained his feet and staggered about the referee lifted Anderson's hand and declared the victory a knockout.

Mandot was undoubtedly helpless and could do nothing but stagger about. Anderson was unmarked.

RACE ENTRIES DROP

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—Coincident with the withdrawal today of the Smada entry in the 500 mile automobile race to be held Memorial day at the Speedway, it was rumored today that the three Isotta entries were in danger of dropping out also. The Italian cars cannot be finished in time for the race, it was feared today. The withdrawal of the Smada brought down the entry list to thirty. About twenty drivers are tuning up their machines at the big track.

MURPHY ERUPTS AGAIN

BOSTON, Mass., May 21.—President C. W. Murphy of the Cubs entered the spotlight from two separate directions today. He caused his first atmospheric concussion by announcing that the downward bound Cubs would gram twenty games in a row "shortly," and his second when he ordered his men to quit talking to newspapermen traveling with the team.

Better Still.
"No woman knows how to drive a nail."

"And what of that? Every woman knows how to drive a man any way she wants him to go."—Washington Herald.

Watching The Scoreboard

It simply wasn't Matty's day. The Cardinals played a bunting game, and of the fifteen hits made off the old master and Wiltse, five were bunts which the Giants could not field. Harmon gave the Giants but two hits.

Despite their troubles the Cubs downed the Braves. Three passes in a row, a triple by Zimmerman and Heinie's sneak home scored four of the runs.

Joe Tinker evidently stands ready to take all the castoff Cubs he can get, having put in a claim for Ed Reulbach. If President Murphy carries out his threats he may get a chance at a few more.

Wagner beat the Dodgers. He covered almost the entire field, accepted nine chances without a skip and slashed out a single that broke up the game.

Those Naps are coming up too close for any great comfort to the Athletics. They staged a soul-tearing rally in the ninth against Washington and won the game after four of their pitchers had been hammered by Griffith's men.

Three hits in three times up again for Ty Cobb. Then he cut up on the third base line with the bases full in the tenth and worried Brown into giving a base on balls that forced him in with the winning run.

The Yanks beat the Browns again and without fudging. Chance didn't try to bat twice in one inning.
